

I do not support the re-interpretation of the term telecommunications providers to include Internet service providers.
If that was the original intent congress would have made specific reference to such in the original law. Until such time as congress passes a law directly dealing with this issue I do not support your stance.